Palin flooded with interview requests, book deal offers and more

Associated Press

ANCHORAGE Sarah Palin is juggling offers to write books, appear in films and sit on dozens of interview couches at a rate astonishing for most Hollywood stars, let alone a first-term governor.

Oprah wants her. So do Letterman and Leno.

The failed Republican vice presidential candidate crunched state budget numbers this past week in her 17th-floor office as tumbling oil prices hit Alaska's revenues. Her staff, meanwhile, fielded TV requests seeking the 44-year-old Palin for late-night banter and Sunday morning Washington policy.

Agents from the William Morris Agency and elsewhere have come knocking. There even has been an offer to host a TV show.

"Tomorrow, Governor Palin could do an interview with any news media on the planet," said her spokesman, Bill McAllister. "Tomorrow, she could probably sign any one of a dozen book deals. She could start talking to people about a documentary or a movie on her life. That's the level we are at here."

"Barbara Walters called me. George Stephanopoulos called me," McAllister said. "I've had multiple conversations with producers for Oprah, Letterman, Leno and 'The Daily Show.'"

Asked whether Winfrey was pursuing Palin for a sit-down, Michelle McIntyre, a spokeswoman for Winfrey's Chicago-based Harpo Productions, said she was "unable to confirm any future plans" for the show.

Palin may have emerged from the campaign politically wounded, with questions about her preparedness for higher office and

ABOUT THAT TURKEY

It starts out like a bad joke: So the governor walks into a turkey farm ...

Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin is an Internet sensation yet again—not because of a "Saturday Night Live" skit this time, but because of a visit Thursday to a turkey farm to pardon a turkey (pictured above with the turkey).

As she answered questions at Triple D Farm & Hatchery outside Wasilla, cameras from the Anchorage Daily News and others showed the bloody work of an employee slaughtering birds behind the former Republican vice presidential candidate, the Tribune reported.

"I feel sorry for her sometimes," read a comment posted Sunday on huffington post.com. "She has too much [ambition]. And now for many people, it is a comedy."

reports of an expensive wardrobe. But she has returned to Alaska with an expanded, if unofficial, title—international celebrity.

Palin is considering about 800 requests for appearances from December through 2009, with 75 percent coming from out of state. They range from invitations to speak at The Chief Executives' Club of Boston to attend a 5-year-old's birthday party, from a prayer breakfast in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to a business conference in Britain.

"She has to pace herself," suggested veteran

Hollywood publicist Howard Bragman. "She wants a career made in a Crock-Pot, not a microwave."

While books and movie deals could be worth millions of dollars, it's not clear if Palin would be able to legally earn it. State rules say she cannot accept outside employment for compensation. But there appears to be little in the way of precedent left by former governors to judge if book deals or lucrative speaking appearances amount to "employment."

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. Here's some food for thought: If you have nude photos of your wife on your cell phone, hang onto it.

Phillip Sherman of Arkansas learned that lesson after he left his phone behind at a McDonald's restaurant and the photos ended up online. Now he and his wife, Tina, are suing the McDonald's Corp., the franchise owner and the store manager.

The suit was filed late last week and seeks a jury trial and $3 million in damages for suffering, embarrassment and the cost of having to move to a new home.

The suit says that Phillip Sherman left the phone the Fayetteville store in July and that employees promised to secure it until he returned.

Manager Aaron Brummley declined to comment, and other company officials didn't return messages. AP

State of the Union

Gabrielle Union made an appearance at the McDonald's at 10 E. Chicago Ave. last Wednesday morning to promote World Children's Day, an event to benefit Ronald McDonald House Charities. In her conversation with my intern Julie Corirossi, Union talked about her obsession with America Ferrera (and Ferrera's rumored feud with Lindsay Lohan) and Union's new movie, "Cadillac Records." She even gave her two cents on former New York Gov. Eliot Spitzer's affair with an escort.

Union

Let's chat about your new movie that you have coming out Dec. 5, "Cadillac Records."

I play Geneva Wade, who is the girlfriend and then wife of [music legend] Muddy Waters. It was a tough role to play, because it is a role where I wouldn't usually see myself in. I had to explore the role of being the woman who stays in an awful relationship.

[Union mentioned that she filmed the movie in New Jersey when news broke about Spitzer's affair with a prostitute.]

I would watch ... his wife and realize she had a reason for staying with her husband, and no one could judge her. I realized she was the face of that woman who stays.

How was it working with America Ferrera on the "Ugly Betty" set?

Oh my God, I'm obsessed with America. America and I are neighbors, so I have known her through that, but she is really nice to work with and she is incredibly smart.

America seems great to work with, but there were rumors about a feud between her and co-star Lindsay Lohan. Is there any truth to that?

It's so funny how people focus—well, not even focus, just create negative attention—about celebrities. People who start feuds or are nasty to other actors in their trailers or on set are just not smart enough to focus their attention elsewhere. America is too smart to get involved in a feud like that.

That's a wrap

It's a wrap for Patrick Swayze!

Swayze is scheduled to finish filming "The Beast" on Monday. He has been filming the first season of the A&E series since July, and he capped off the completion of the show with a wrap party at Underground nightclub Sunday night.

Swayze filmed most scenes last week at Chicago Studio City on the West Side, where "The Beast" set is located. However, last Thursday he was spotted working on the show at the Palm Court in the Drake Hotel, and down the street at Rosebud Steakhouse. Swayze looked leaner than usual, but I'm told he ate a burger at the steakhouse.

"The Beast" is scheduled to premiere Jan. 15.

Obama's newer deal

President-elect lays out broad economic plan for job growth, sees opportunity in 'green' economy

Associated Press

WASHINGTON President-elect Obama wants the new Congress to approve massive spending and fresh tax cuts in January, "a big number" probably far distancing a $175 billion campaign proposal, so he can sign it after taking office, top aides said Sunday.

Obama over the weekend outlined the framework of a plan to save or create 2.5 million jobs by the end of 2010 and prepared to introduce leaders of his economic team Monday in Chicago. Aides said they soon would fill in the details and Democratic lawmakers, already working with transition officials, pledged to act quickly when Congress convenes Jan. 6, two weeks before the inauguration.

How the ambitious plan will be financed—particularly with tax relief for workers included in the proposal—was not detailed over the weekend, but the news signaled that Obama's team is taking a more hands-on role during the final weeks of the transition.

"We don't have time to waste here," Obama senior adviser David Axelrod said. "We want to hit the ground running on January 20th." Echoing that, the second-ranking House Democrat, Rep. Steny Hoyer of Maryland, said, "We expect to have during the first couple of weeks of January a package for the president's consideration when he takes office."

Axelrod also warned automakers, seeking billions in government help to stave off collapse, to devise a plan to retool and restructure. Otherwise, he said, "there is very little taxpayers can do to help them."

Axelrod couldn't resist taking a jab at the Big Three executives, who left Congress empty-handed last week after flying into Washington in corporate jets and pleading for money. "I hope that they will come back to Washington in early December—on commercial flights—with a plan," he said.

BAILOUT BACKLASH

Among the most pressing economic issues is the fate of the auto industry. Congress last week rebuffed appeals for help from executives from GM, Chrysler and Ford. Congressional leaders urged them to return next month with a specific reorganization plan that spells out how much money they need and how they intended to remain financially viable.

David Axelrod, senior adviser to President-elect Obama, said Sunday "the signal sent by Congress was the right one."

Hearings are expected the week of Dec. 1. Lawmakers could consider legislation the following week if they are satisfied by the companies' responses. AP

Seeing green

During the campaign Obama had proposed a $175 billion economic recovery package. The new one will be significantly larger and would incorporate his campaign ideas for new jobs in environmentally friendly technologies—the "green economy." He listed green jobs prominently among the investments he thinks government should make in a stimulus plan.

"We'll put people back to work rebuilding our crumbling roads and bridges, modernizing schools that are failing our children and building wind farms and solar panels; fuel-efficient cars and the alternative energy technology that can free us from our dependence on foreign oil," Obama said in his weekly radio address Saturday.

It also would include his proposals for tax relief for middle- and lower-income workers.

But aides said the plan would not offer an immediate tax increase on wealthy taxpayers. During the campaign, Obama said he would pay for increased tax relief by raising taxes on people making more than $250,000.

"There won't be any tax increases in the January package," said one Obama aide, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the details of the Obama package have not been fleshed out.

Obama could delay any tax increase to 2011, when current Bush administration tax cuts expire.

House Republican leader John Boehner of Ohio urged Obama to make that explicit. "Why wouldn't we have the president-elect say, 'I am not going to raise taxes on any American in my first two years in office?'"

Advisers would not discuss a specific size of the new plan, though some economists have endorsed spending up to $600 billion to revive the economy. Sen. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., suggested $500 billion to $700 billion.

"I don't know what the number is going to be, but it's going to be a big number," Obama economic adviser Austan Goolsbee said. "It has to be. The point is to, kind of, get people back on track and startle the thing into submission."

Job one

While Obama in the weekend Democratic radio address said his plan "will mean 2.5 million more jobs by January of 2011," aides said the figure was a net sum of jobs created and jobs saved that would otherwise disappear without government help.

The aide who spoke on condition of anonymity said the plan would likely slow down job losses in 2009, but that new jobs probably would not be evident until 2010.

Axelrod said the president-elect's transition team was gratified by the stock market's positive reaction to Obama's choice of Timothy Geithner as treasury secretary. The market soared almost 500 points on Friday with word Obama had settled on the 47-year-old Geithner to lead his new economic team.

"The response has been great, and it should be—Tim Geithner is uniquely qualified to do this job," Axelrod said.

In addition to Geithner, Obama planned to announce on Monday the selection of Larry Summers as head of the National Economic Council. Geithner would have chief responsibility for tackling the economic slowdown and credit crunch. At the New York Fed, he has played a critical role in the government's response to the financial crisis and has worked closely with Treasury Secretary Henry Paulson and Ben Bernanke, the Fed chairman.

Summers, 53, treasury secretary under President Bill Clinton and one-time president of Harvard University, will advise Obama from the White House. Summers would help coordinate federal response.

TRIBUNE, NEWS SERVICES CONTRIBUTED.

Meet Timothy Geithner

Age 47

Position Treasury secretary

Education Earned bachelor's degree in government and Asian studies, Dartmouth College. Earned master's in international economics and East Asian studies, Johns Hopkins School of Advanced Int'l Studies.

Experience

- » Kissinger Associates Inc., 1985 to 1988
- » Treasury Department, 1988-2001, including undersecretary of treasury for international affairs
- » Director of the policy development and review department, International Monetary Fund, 2001-03
- » Chief executive officer, Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 2003-present

In Geithner, Barack Obama has an advocate of government intervention in the economy. Geithner worked with the Bush administration on the government-engineered sale of Bear Stearns and the bailout of insurance giant AIG, and the decision not to bail out Lehman Bros. But Obama might also have yet another hoops enthusiast in his inner circle. Geithner is drawn to athletics and has worn ski boots to business meetings and organized pickup basketball games with his New York colleagues, according to a profile published last month in The Dartmouth, his alma mater's campus newspaper. AP, TRIBUNE CONTRIBUTED.

TWITTERNOMICS

Obama's got a plan to create 2.5 million jobs. Our question: Doable? Here are some answers.

@danno1227
just as doable as the cubs going to the world series.

@neosoul I want to be optimistic in saying that he can create the resources to fulfill his plan. It would do the economy some good.

@RandomNickname
Doable, yes, but dependent on the kind of job. I mean, are we talking 2.5 million minimum-wage jobs, or livable-wage gigs?

GOP tweaks Obama on 'Barackbook'

Chicago Tribune

Barack Obama's history-making win Nov. 4 has not softened critics' claims about the president-elect's relationships and associations.

On barackbook.com, a spoof on sites such as Facebook and MySpace, visitors can read up on Obama's alleged ties to all sorts of characters from Chicago and beyond.

Among Obama's "friends" are controversial names that became familiar during the election, including former Weather Underground member William Ayers, Middle East researcher Rashid Khalidi and convicted political fundraiser Antoin "Tony" Rezko.

But his friends also include Mayor Daley, Gov. Blagojevich and various left-leaning Chicago politicians tied to controversy.

The "profile" for one Obama political mentor quotes an Associated Press story from 2007: "[S]tate Senate President Emil Jones serves under an ethical cloud. He has several family members on the state payroll and uses his clout to aid their business interests."

The Republican National Committee, which launched the site in July, still operates the site. Recent posts include criticism of Obama's Cabinet selections and updates on his transition into the White House.

A GOP official said the site has been visited close to 380,000 times. Obama's actual Facebook site has 3.2 million registered supporters.

Airlines are down these days, and as holidays approach so are fares

FLIGHT PLAN

O'Hare's two largest tenants, United Airlines and American Airlines, have steadily reduced their presence in Chicago as they shifted flights to smaller aircraft and other hubs due to fierce competition, high operating costs and chronic congestion. Carriers will fly 7.4 million fewer airline seats to O'Hare in 2008 than they did in 2000, and offer 15,200 fewer flights, according to data compiled for the Tribune by OAG. That means millions of fewer travelers pumping money into city coffers.

United and American Airlines also unveiled sales for travel in December and into the new year.

There are some exceptions, however. Airfares remain high to some destinations, including New York, and may have increased during peak travel days: Nov. 30, Dec. 20 and Dec. 26-28, according to bestfares.com.

But airlines also may have alienated passengers by ratcheting up rates and pushing through a host of new fees for services that previously were offered free of charge. During the first seven months of the year, carriers attempted 22 price hikes, 15 of which were successful, according to farecompare.com.

Carriers hiked holiday fares in September and early October, thinking their capacity cuts would spur a shortage of airplane seats for Thanksgiving and Christmas, Parsons said. But the move backfired: They priced themselves out of the market for many regular customers.

Chicago's 2008 projected revenue from airlines serving O'Hare is expected to decline, to $281 million from the $391 million collected last year as carriers shift to smaller planes and alternate hubs to cut costs. ANTONIO PEREZ/TRIBUNE end travel.

But carriers are suddenly struggling to fill seats as consumers spooked by market and economic turmoil trim their spending on everything from Christmas gifts to vacations. Analysts say the steep falloff in travel over the past six weeks caught carriers, hotels and car-rental companies off guard.

Airlines are responding with deep discounts. Southwest Airlines last week extended a three-day sale through Dec. 8, with some tickets priced for a mere $90 round trip.

Chicago Tribune

For the first time in memory, airfares are falling rather than rising as the holiday travel season approaches.

Prices for flights from Chicago to other U.S. cities during the year-end holidays have plunged 25 percent, to an average of $264 round trip, during the past six weeks, according to bestfares.com.

The phenomenon, a byproduct of the deteriorating economy, means many procrastinators are paying about $90 less per trip than early birds who locked in pricey tickets months ago when airfares seemed certain to rise in advance of the holidays, as they typically do.

It provided an early Christmas gift for Chicagoans Carly Cannell and husband Jorge Orozco-Cordero. They had decided to skip their annual yuletide family gathering in Albany, N.Y., when fares appeared to be stuck beyond their budget in the $350 round-trip range.

That was a month ago. The couple kept checking airfares and last week landed tickets that were $75 cheaper.

"Jorge had told his mom we weren't coming," said Cannell, president of Weetu, a commercial and hospitality design firm. "That same day, he found something [at a reasonable price]."

The spate of holiday bargains comes after financially strapped airlines shrank U.S. operations by about 10 percent this fall, the equivalent of grounding a major airline. Analysts predicted the capacity cuts would keep planes full and prices sky-high for year-

Hit a sour patch? Here's a sweet solution

Chicago Tribune

Miracle fruit has landed in Chicago. And the response could not be sweeter.

The Wicker Park nonprofit group 826CHI threw a benefit Thursday built around a small, red berry that messes with your taste buds.

The berries were ordered from a Florida grower for about $3 apiece and shipped cold. Chew the fruit to release a protein—called, seriously, miraculin—and for about an hour, sour foods will taste sweet.

"The lemons, limes and grapefruit were the most dramatic," said Lynne Roberts, 37, a scientist with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. "They tasted like they were coated in sugar. The red wine was horrible."

In front of Roberts lay a buffet of acidic fruits, vinegars, sauerkraut, kimchi, pickles, olives and tequila. Sour Patch Kids candy was a favorite. So were hot sauces (miraculin mellow Tabasco) and Guinness beer (think of a stout-flavored ice cream float).

"I put so much random food in my system," said Josh Lesser, 25, an actor and substitute teacher who like the other guests brought foods to try. His addition: wasabi.

Of course, the berry might fool the mouth, but it does not fool the digestive system.

"I hope your stomachache is still at bay," organizer Patrick Shaffner, 27, told the 120 or so guests at the end. "But it will come later tonight—with a vengeance."

According to the Guardian, people in parts of west Africa have been using berries containing miraculin to sweeten sour food and drink for centuries.

Miracle of science? Berries with miraculin mess with your taste buds. COLIN MCMAHON/TRIBUNE

Farmers say shop local

Dozens of Illinois and southern Wisconsin farmers gathered at the Chicago Cultural Center over the weekend to expound on the health and environmental benefits of eating locally grown and organic foods.

At a special session Sunday on eating organically and saving money, local food experts explained that shopping at farmers markets saves money because customers don't pay for shipping that apple thousands of miles.

"[At the grocery store], you're paying the farmer, the processor, the packager, the marketer, the checkout clerk," said Laura Bruzas, editor of the Healthy Dining Chicago community newsletter.

Bruzas, along with a panel including two farmers and a local food-delivery service, offered several tips for cutting costs while eating healthy:

» Go into the nooks and crannies of your pantry. You save money—and avoid waste—by finding uses for what may already be in your cabinets or freezer. Rather than throwing away the last bits of the chicken, use it to make soup. Use tea bags twice. Extra chopped vegetables can be used for an easy taco night the next day.

» Choose fruits that grow locally. When you reach for an avocado or pineapple—foods that do not grow in the Midwest—you're paying for shipping, and the food may have lost some of its nutrients during its long journey, too.

» Plan ahead. Planning meals means less impulse buying, which saves money.

» Grow something—even in the city and during the winter. A small herb grown on a windowsill ensures that what you add to pasta sauce or sandwiches is grown without pesticides, and you aren't spending $4 on a box of fresh herbs every time a recipe calls for it.

New unit set to target gangs

Chicago Police Supt. Jody Weis on Saturday unveiled a citywide gang-enforcement strategy to root out crime in gang-infested neighborhoods and reduce the city's soaring homicide rate.

Leo Schmitz, the Police Department's acting commander of gang investigations, will lead a gang enforcement unit of about 400 officers who will target violent neighborhoods where gang activity occurs. Putting the gang-response units under a central command is a critical part of the restructuring because warfare often crosses jurisdictional lines, Weis said.

The new organization will allow for a quicker exchange of information and resources and enable officers to better target neighborhoods where gangs are prevalent, Weis said.

"All city gang teams will fall under one leader, creating a leaner, more agile operation," he said, calling gang activity the most serious threat in Chicago.

Chicago school leaves students in limbo

Josephine Kilpatrick was only six weeks away from completing the courses she needed to become an electrocardiography technician, a process that had taken more than a year and cost more than $10,000 in tuition.

"I was in a rut, so I was looking for a new career and at starting a different life," said Kilpatrick, 37, of Logan Square. "I wanted something recession-proof, so I looked into doing cardiovascular work."

But in late October, Kilpatrick's school—Medical Careers Institute, a 31-year-old Loop school owned by the parents of actor Billy Zane—told her not to show up for her Friday class. By the next week, word had spread that the school had closed, leaving students like Kilpatrick with no diploma, untransferable credits and unpaid student loans.

Now the Illinois Board of Education and attorney general's office are looking into the school's abrupt closure, and students are threatening to sue the owners.

Across from the Art Institute of Chicago on South Michigan Avenue, Medical Careers Institute was founded in 1977 by William and Thalia Zane, records show. The school's Web site, which has been removed, claimed this year that it had "graduated thousands of students."

Attempts to reach the Zanes were unsuccessful. The school's attorney, Arthur Evans, said he was not authorized to answer questions, but he played down the abrupt closing.

"They closed the school; it went out of business," Evans said. "There are businesses closing every day now."

The school, which reported enrollment of more than 300 students in 2007, offered training as medical technicians who operate equipment such as EKGs and ultrasound machines.

Child hurt in South Side crash

A child was seriously hurt Sunday in a single-vehicle crash in Englewood, officials said. The vehicle struck a light pole near 69th Street and Racine Avenue around 11:45 a.m., according to police. A Chicago fire department spokesman said the child was taken to University of Chicago Comer Children's Hospital in serious to critical condition.

19-year-old killed on West Side

A 19-year-old man was shot and killed early Sunday on the West Side, police said. Terrance Harris of the 3100 block of West Monroe Street was pronounced dead about 3:30 a.m. at Mt. Sinai Hospital, according to the Cook County medical examiner's office. Police said Harris was shot on the upper left side of his body in the 100 block of North Karlov Avenue in West Garfield Park.

IIT student's death ruled accidental

The death of an Illinois Institute of Technology student who was found inside a storage room in a fraternity house on campus Saturday was ruled accidental by the Cook County medical examiner's office Sunday. Benjamin Collen, 19, was found in the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity house, officials said. Collen was reported missing on Nov. 14. The medical examiner's office said an autopsy found that Collen, a sophomore from Lincolnwood, died from asphyxia due to inhalation of carbon dioxide from a canister.

NU students named Rhodes Scholars

Two Northwestern students are among 32 women and men nationwide selected as Rhodes Scholars for 2009, the scholarship trust announced Sunday. Anna Yermakova of Buffalo Grove is a senior at Northwestern, where she majors in biochemistry, piano, and history and philosophy of science and logic, according to the trust. Mallory Dwinall of Gig Harbor, Wash., is also a Northwestern senior. She majors in Spanish, economics and international studies. The scholars were selected from 769 applicants endorsed by 207 colleges and universities.

Gunfire at mall kills 1

1 Shots fired near leaders

Shots were fired near the motorcade carrying the presidents of Georgia and Poland on Sunday in Tbilisi, Georgia—the fifth anniversary of Georgia's Rose Revolution—Georgian officials said. No one was hurt. AP

2 3 shot at church

A gunman fired shots inside a church Sunday in Clifton, N.J., and authorities said three people were wounded, one critically. Officials say some 200 people were attending a service there.

Tinkle troubleshooting

Astronauts tinkered Sunday on a troublesome piece of equipment that can convert urine and sweat into drinkable water once it's functioning and allow the International Space Station to grow to six crew members.

3 Turkey bowling

Cincinnati is warming up for Thanksgiving with its traditional Turkey Bowl, an annual outdoor event using frozen turkeys in place of bowling balls. The person with the highest score after three rounds wins $100 cash and "WKRP in Cincinnati" DVDs, including the series' famous "Turkeys Away" episode.

4 Crisis control

At a summit Sunday in Lima, Peru, 21 economies representing more than half of the world's productive power said that the global financial crisis can be quelled in 18 months, but provided few details of how they expect that to happen.

5 Green cemetery

A new kind of silent hero has joined the fight against climate change. Santa Coloma de Gramenet, a gritty, working-class Spanish town outside Barcelona, has placed a sea of solar panels atop mausoleums at its cemetery, transforming a place of perpetual rest into one buzzing with renewable energy.

6 TUKWILA, Wash. A young gunman remained at large early Sunday following a shooting at a busy shopping mall that killed one teenager and seriously wounded another.

At least four people were detained and questioned after the shooting Saturday afternoon at Southcenter Mall in this Seattle suburb, police Officer Mike Murphy said.

Murphy said the shooting stemmed from a fight between two groups of people and may have been gang related. He said police expected to identify the gunman and make an arrest soon. The assailant and the two victims were all in their late teens or early 20s, authorities said.

The Southcenter Mall in Tukwila was jammed with thousands of pre-Thanksgiving Day shoppers when the gunman fired multiple shots after apparently getting into an altercation with the two victims, police said.

Chris Plummer told KIRO-TV a fight developed in a group of young people and one standing next to him pulled a gun and fired six or seven rounds.

"Everybody just stopped," said Mark Nickels, 51 of Seattle, a shopper. "Everybody thought something fell. Then a second or two later, there was a second shot and then everybody scattered. People were running to the (exits) or running to the stores to hide."

Waiting for their say

7 CARACAS, Venezuela President Hugo Chavez sought to hold on to his dominance in state and municipal elections Sunday, facing an opposition aiming to win back power in key states and cities. ## Dome away from home ...

ST. LOUIS The announced crowd at the Edward Jones Dome Sunday was 61,994, but it hardly felt like a home game for the St. Louis Rams.

Bears fans packed the stands and loudly cheered on their team to a 27-3 victory over the Rams.

"It did seem like a home game, yes," said Bears coach Lovie Smith.

Kyle Orton agreed.

"We came down and had a lot of fan support with us so that's always good," Orton said.

When the Rams fans did get loud it was generally to boo their team's performance, which wasn't lost on the players.

"To walk out of the tunnel and to get booed by your own crowd and to walk back in (the locker room) and be chastised. It's horrible," said Rams linebacker Pisa Tinoisamoa. "I've watched the '99 films when the crowds were wild. Definitely, it's disappointing but it's understandable how they feel."

Offensive guard Richie Incognito criticized the fans Thursday for being quiet and not knowing when to cheer. He backtracked on the statements Friday but was roundly booed when he was called for a false start in the second quarter.

Incognito declined to comment after the game. AP

Offensive game plan is Devin sent—sort of Well, well, well. Welcome back, Devin Hester. You amassed 89 yards of offense and ... exactly zero touchdowns.

Not bad, I suppose. If you're looking at the bright side. But that's not my job.

Hester continues to stink it up in the return game. He average 6.5 yards Sunday.

And to think we used to call him the greatest returner ever. Greatest bust this season, that's for sure.

The win is nice, but the Lions might be able to beat St. Louis. Hard to believe it takes three quarterbacks to be that bad.

It won't be as easy next week. Vikings in Minnesota. Yuck.

Bears defense manhandles St. Louis to stay tied for first

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS Another opponent put the St. Louis Rams hopelessly behind by halftime. This time, it was the Bears' turn to roll up some big numbers.

Matt Forte scored on two long runs and Marc Bulger lasted only five plays before sustaining a concussion against a defense that had three of a season-best five sacks by the break, helping the Bears build a 21-point cushion in a 27-3 victory Sunday.

Kyle Orton set a franchise record by throwing 185 consecutive passes without an interception, helping the Bears (6-5) rebound from a 37-3 blowout loss at Green Bay last week and keep a share of first place in the balanced NFC North.

"We go into every game saying, 'Start fast,'" Orton said. "Start fast and finish strong," and I thought for the most part we did that."

The Rams (2-9) have lost five straight and were booed off the field at halftime as the Bears departed to cheers. St. Louis has been routed by a 99-6 score in the first half of the last three setbacks, and outscored 123-13 in the first half the last four games.

Bears coach Lovie Smith, the defensive coordinator with the Rams from 2001-03, said it felt as if he was at Soldier Field.

"We have super fans," Smith said. "You don't want to disappoint them. It seems like every win we've had, our fans have had something to do with it, and they definitely did today."

Coach Jim Haslett said the Rams didn't quit, but were "terrible" in play execution, ball security and tackling.

"I will do anything I can to help these guys be successful. Anything," Haslett said. "But I can't tackle for them anymore. I can't take care of the football."

The Bears intercepted 38-year-old Trent Green four times in the second half, two by Lance Briggs with Brian Urlacher adding his second of the year, to keep the Rams from rallying.

Forte, one of the NFL's top rookies, had a career-best 132 yards on 20 carries and his third 100-yard rushing game. He lost his first fumble of the year early in the second quarter, but more than made up for it with a 13-yard scoring run to cap the Bears' effortless opening drive and a 47-yarder in the second quarter.

"I just run through the holes, and they do the dirty work up front," Forte said. "That's where it starts."

Daniel Manning's 50-yard kickoff return opened the game, giving the Bears a short field. After Forte cruised into the end zone, the chant was clearly audible: "Let's go Bears!"

1 Happy Bears are here again

Promptly after the Bears' win, I did a victory lap around the backyard. Then, I felt silly. This was the Rams. They stink.

2 Hester-ized

I will say, however, I covered more ground during my celebratory run than Devin Hester has all season.

3 Three's company

I had to laugh as the Rams trotted out three quarterbacks. You know, how most teams react when the Bears are doing the same thing.

4 Donovan McMad

Eagles QB Donovan McNabb was benched Sunday after turning the ball over three times. Maybe he didn't understand the rules.

5 QB-tastrophe

Speaking of bad QBs: Cleveland pulled Brady Quinn, Detroit pulled Daunte Culpepper and Houston started Sage Rosenfels. Oh, he's usually the starter?

6 Lions tamed

Don't you feel the least bit bad for Detroit, which is 0-11? Yeah, me neither, especially considering Lions fan No. 1 is Whizkers.

7 Circus streaks

Hey, with road trips this good, who needs home ice, right Blackhawks?

8 Vampire weekend

The Hawks are playing so late these days, they'd feel right at home in "Twilight." Minus the bloodsucking.

9 Get well soon

Derrick Rose left the Bulls' game Friday after scoring 12 in the fourth as they held on in Oakland. The knee-jerk reactionary in me wants to say "uh-oh."

CAT CALL

by Whizkers

Yes, felines the world over are mourning the Lions, but we also are reveling in the college football success of the Northwestern Wildcats. Their march to a bowl is more satisfying than three motionless hours basking in the sun on the window sill. Not that you'd know anything about that, Mr. I'm Too Fat To Even Fit Through The Dog Door.

Something's in the air

Talk about a topsy-turvy day in the NFL: Baltimore's Mark Clayton (left) does a flip after scoring Sunday against Philadelphia; Oakland's Justin Fargas (top) is stopped short of the goal line in Denver; and Carolina's Jake Delhomme (above) dives in for six in a loss at Atlanta.

1 How do you feel after this Bears game?	I feel pretty. Oh so pretty. I feel pretty and witty and bright.	Good, but would feel a lot better if they didn't blow the Titans game.	Like when I eat a sack of White Castle sliders: OK at first, but I'll pay for it later.	Like making plans for Super Bowl XLIII.	A cross between Trent Green and Dick Stockton. Dazed and confused. Yawn.
2 Give props to one part of the Bears that you've bashed this season.	Rex Grossman, nice job staying on the bench.	Congrats to a D that couldn't have even shut down a bar earlier this season if it tried.	Tommie Harris finally got his head in the game and out of the sports section.	Matt Forte for proving he's human with his first fumble. I was getting suspicious.	Props? Like a wig, floppy shoes and a big red nose? Tommie Harris doesn't need that to be a clown.
3 How bad of a week has Donovan McNabb had?	Not even turkeys would trade places with Donovan McNabb right now.	Even Cubs players are laughing at him.	Last Monday he needed the NFL Rule Book for Dummies. It went downhill from there.	Better than Chrysler, worse than Ford.	Even his mom said "no soup for you!"
4 With the Blackhawks 3-0 out west, it's time for a new nickname for the trip.	The Don't Count Your Chickens Until The Circus Trip Is Over Trip.	The Best Team in Chicago Emerges Trip. # AS HEARD ON PAUL HARVEY NEWS

New 3rd generation of famous EdenPURE™ heater heats faster, better, quieter, saves more money

Can cut your heating bills up to 50%, cannot start a fire, heats room evenly, does not reduce humidity or oxygen

Never be cold again

As you have probably heard on Paul Harvey News and on radio, television, and newspapers across the nation, BioTech Research has announced the 3rd generation of the EdenPURE™ Infrared Portable Heater.

The famous EdenPURE™ heater has sold well over 1 million units of its past 2 generations to satisfied customers across the nation. Customers have raved how it has cut their heating bill and amazingly kept them much warmer than they were with other heating products. Many customers say it is the only heating product that has ever kept their feet warm. That is because the EdenPURE™ heater heats the room evenly floor-to-ceiling and wall-to-wall.

The 3rd generation of the EdenPURE™ Infrared Portable Heater heats faster, better and quieter. Even though the past generations were safe and reliable, the 3rd generation is even safer and more reliable.

The EdenPURE™ GEN3 can pay for itself in a matter of weeks and then start putting a great deal of extra money in your pocket after that.

And that's just the start of the benefits for the new EdenPURE™ GEN3 Quartz Infrared Portable Heater.

A major cause of residential fires in the United States is portable heaters. But the EdenPURE™ GEN3 cannot cause a fire. That is because the quartz infrared heating element never gets to a temperature that can ignite anything.

The outside of the EdenPURE™ GEN3 only gets warm to the touch so that it will not burn children or pets. Pets can sleep on it when it is operating without harm.

The EdenPURE™ GEN3 will also make you healthier. That is because, unlike other heating sources, it will not reduce humidity or oxygen in the room. Typical heating sources reduce humidity which dries out your sinuses, makes you more susceptible to disease and makes your skin dry. With other heating sources, you'll notice that you get sleepy when the heat comes on because they are burning up oxygen.

The advanced space-age EdenPURE™ GEN3 Quartz Infrared Portable Heater also heats the room evenly, wall-to-wall and floor-to-ceiling. Other heating sources heat rooms unevenly with most of the heat concentrated high in the room and to the center of the room. And, as you know, portable heaters only heat an area a few feet around the heater. With the EdenPURE™ GEN3, the temperature will not vary in any part of the room.

Unlike other heating sources, the EdenPURE™ GEN3 cannot put poisonous carbon monoxide into a room or any type of fumes or any type of harmful radiation.

For more details on the amazing EdenPURE™ GEN3 Quartz Infrared Portable Heater, here is my interview with Julius Toth, Director of Product Development for BioTech Research®.

Q. What is the origin of this amazing heating element in the EdenPURE™ GEN3?

A. This advanced heating element was discovered accidentally by a man named John Jones. He had a large old farmhouse that was impossible to heat. Jones had a coal furnace in his basement. Jones placed a sheet of cured copper near the furnace to store it. Cured copper is a type of copper that goes through an extensive heating process to give it special properties.

After the fire went out in the coal furnace, Jones noticed that the sheet of copper was heating his entire basement evenly, even though the furnace was no longer putting out heat. He also was amazed as to how long the heat stayed in the copper and continued to warm the room.

Jones was so taken back by this that he started to experiment. He formed a company to develop a heating source out of this cured copper. But Jones had a number of children and he did not want a heating source that would cause a fire or create other hazardous situations like creating carbon monoxide or radiation. He also did not want his children to get burned.

To make a long story short, through a great deal of research and development, Jones developed a heating source that utilized cured copper and commercial infrared quartz tubes.

Q. What advantages does infrared quartz tube heating source have over other heating

Cannot start a fire; a child or animal can touch or sit on it without harm source products?

A. John Jones designed his heating source around the three most important consumer benefits: economy, comfort, and safety. The final development of this infrared quartz heat source cannot be matched by any other heating system in the world.

In the EdenPURE™ GEN3 system, electricity is used to generate infrared light which, in turn, creates a very safe heat. Infrared is the safest form of heat because it does not create carbon monoxide or harmful radiation. And, most importantly, infrared heat does not reach a burning temperature.

After a great deal of research and development, very efficient infrared heat chambers were developed that utilize three unique patented solid copper heat exchangers in one EdenPURE™ GEN3 heater. Over 5 years of research, development and real life field testing stand behind this heat source. It has now worked in residential and commercial applications worldwide for over 25 years.

Q. Why is it that this quartz infrared heating source uses less energy to create heat than other sources?

A. Actually, there is more than one reason. One of the primary reasons is that heat at combustion level, which is what all other heat sources use, causes the heat to instantly rise to the ceiling. Therefore, the heat is not evenly distributed, causing a very inefficient and uncomfortable heat source.

The EdenPURE™ GEN3 Quartz Infrared Portable Heater does not use burning heat. Once the heat exchanger absorbs the infrared heat, it ex- hales the heat into the living area which is carried by the existing humidity in the air. This causes the heat to travel rapidly and evenly throughout a room.

In actual studies, photos using infrared lighting demonstrated that the heat was almost perfectly even from floor-to-ceiling and wall-to-wall. The EdenPURE™ GEN3 Quartz Infrared efficiency is based on the distribution of energized air, not on just fan movement. This heat is coined as "soft heat" due to how comfortable it is.

Q. What are the other disadvantages of combustion heat sources?

A. Heat sources that are above the burning level have many unhealthy side effects. One of these is that it creates dry, irritating indoor air. It also burns a great deal of oxygen in the air. If you remember, when you sit in front of a fireplace or a portable heater or close to a heat source, you will remember yawning. This is because you are not getting enough oxygen.

This dry irritating heat and lack of oxygen dries out sinuses and mucus in the throat, and makes people susceptible to disease. The lack of oxygen causes fatigue.

Also, many combustible heat sources produce carbon monoxide, static cling, and some produce radiation.

Q. So you're saying that children or pets can come up to this unit and touch it and not be harmed?

A. That is absolutely correct. As a matter of fact, pets are actually drawn to this heat because it is a natural source of heat, just like the sun heats the earth. Animals are much more instinctive than humans. This heat not only heats the air, but it also heats the objects in the room. It is a perfectly balanced heat.

Q. How can a person cut their heating bill by up to 50% with the EdenPURE™ GEN3?

A. First, the EdenPURE™ GEN3 uses less energy to create heat than other sources, but that is just part of why it will cut a person's heating bill. The EdenPURE™ GEN3 will heat a room in minutes. Therefore, you can turn the heat down in your house to as low as 50 degrees, but the room you are occupying, which has the EdenPURE™ GEN3, will be warm and comfortable. The EdenPURE™ GEN3 is portable. When you move to another room, it will quickly heat that room also. This can drastically cut heating bills, in some instances, by up to 50%.

Q. What are the improvements in the 3rd generation EdenPURE™ GEN3 Infrared Portable Heater?

A. The improvements include a new look, patented far infrared bulbs that produce a more soothing heat and it is fire retardant. Another improvement is a climate control function with 2 modes: Auto - heater is working at full power and will keep room temperature within 1 degree of desired temperature; High - heater is working at high speed at all times regardless of room temperature.

Q. I also understand that the EdenPURE™ GEN3 produces clean fresh air without furnace filters. How can it do that?

A. A furnace generates a lot of dust due to the Heats floor to the same temperature as ceiling.

1. Electricity ignites powerful quartz infrared lamp.

2. The quartz infrared lamp without combustion gently warms the patented cured copper tubes.

3. The heat from the copper tubing rides the humidity in the room and provides moist, soft heat ceiling to floor, wall to wall without reducing oxygen or humidity.

GEN3 New Improvements

The GEN3's front panel where the heat comes out is now heat resistant.

The GEN3 has a quieter, stronger, more durable fan for better performance.

The GEN3 has improved climate control with an LCD thermostat.

The GEN3 has new patented bulbs. The new bulb will last for at least 20,000 working hours.

The GEN3 has special modes. The Auto mode is for climate control and the High mode means the heater is working at the highest wattage.

The GEN3 has an improved computer motherboard.

The GEN3 has a top of the line washable fan filter.

combustion. By lowering the furnace temperature, you are using your furnace less and therefore reducing the requirement for the furnace filters. Also, when there's no combustion, there are no harmful fumes.

Q. So, the EdenPURE™ GEN3 is totally safe to use?

A. It absolutely is. The EdenPURE™ GEN3 has zero clearance, which means you can push it up against the wall or furniture without risk of fire. Tests prove the unit does not transmit any energy into the atmosphere that will burn or harm anyone regardless of distance between the person and the EdenPURE™ GEN3.

The EdenPURE™ GEN3 will pay for itself in weeks. It will put a great deal of extra money in a users pocket. Because of today's spiraling gas, oil, propane, and other energy costs, the EdenPURE™ GEN3 will provide even greater savings as the time goes by.

The EdenPURE™ GEN3 comes in 2 models. Model 500 heats a room up to 300 square feet and Model 1000 heats a room up to 1,000 square feet.

Sooners OK in BCS standings

The initial news from the BCS standings looked good for Texas. The long-range forecast, however, favors Oklahoma.

The Longhorns stayed ahead of the Sooners on Sunday—but not by much—and moved into the coveted second spot in the standings, thanks to a better computer rating.

The Sooners surged in the standings on the strength of a 65-21 victory against Texas Tech, which dropped to seventh place.

“This was a good week for Oklahoma,” said Jerry Palm, an independent BCS analyst and blogger, in a telephone interview. “It wasn’t really to be expected that they’d catch Texas this week.”

Alabama remained on top of the standings, a comfortable No. 1 in both the USA Today coaches’ poll and Harris poll, and best according to the computers. The Crimson Tide are two wins away from playing for their first national title since 1992.

Texas is close behind Oklahoma in both polls, but has the second-best computer rating. The Longhorns’ BCS average is .9209 out of a possible 1.000.

Oklahoma is at .9125. But the Sooners have a road game against Oklahoma State (9-2) on Saturday that—if they win—should boost their computer score and likely sway a few more voters their way.

BCS standings

No.	Team	Pct.	LW
1	Alabama	.9872	1
2	Texas	.9209	3
3	Oklahoma	.9125	5
4	Florida	.8755	4
5	USC	.7974	6
6	Utah	.7858	7
7	Texas Tech	.7789	2
8	Penn St.	.7520	8
9	Boise St.	.6581	9
10	Ohio St.	.6210	11
24	Northwestern	.1130	NR

LW=LAST WEEK’S RANK

Texas plays Texas A&M (4-7) on Thanksgiving, a game that will weigh down the Longhorns’ strength of schedule—a vital part of the computer ratings—and won’t give voters much reason to move them up.

“I don’t think this week was good news for Texas,” Palm said of Sunday’s standings. “Oklahoma can only get better in all three parts of the formula and Texas can’t.

“I would expect if Oklahoma wins next week they’d finish ahead of Texas.”

I’m shocked. Shocked, I tell ya.

The Blackhawks are turning into the sports story of the year in Chicago. They’ve put together a remarkable turnaround.

And if you think people are talking about the Blackhawks now, just wait until they play that Jan. 1 game at Wrigley Field. They’ll have the bleacher blums green with envy—or blue from freezing their butts off.

The raw truth

Sentiment cuts both ways when it comes to these new sushi spots

Just because nearly every sushi joint reader reviews

METROMIX.COM

in town sells a spicy tuna roll, kani nigiri and some variation on ebi tempura in an inside-out roll doesn't mean they're all created equal. Check out what these readers have to say, then sound off yourself at metromix.com.

Hot Woks Cool Sushi

3930 N. Pulaski Road. 773-282-1818

This newish pan-Asian BYOB in Irving Park boasts a sushi chef, Woranat "Noom" Wathakeyanon, who's logged time at established spots such as Sushi Wabi and Tank.

"I have had all of [the] signature rolls here—the Fukudome is amazing! Delivery was quick and easy. The only two things keeping this place from being five stars [are that the] sushi rolls are priced a little high and the corkage fee is annoying."—TWOS FROM ALBANY PARK

"What a wonderful addition to an underserved neighborhood. ... Good apps, a tasty specialty roll and flavorful rice and noodle entrees. Can't wait to try out more items."—ZIZZLE FROM WEST WALKER

Lips Asian Bistro & Sushi Bar

3705 N. Southport Ave. 773-248-5477

This French-Asian fusion spot in Lakeview's former Once Upon a Thai space offers a full menu emphasizing Japanese flavors, but there's also a sushi bar turning out classic and specialty maki, including a popular white tuna-strawberry roll.

"The service was so welcoming and the martini list a bit intimidating but so tasty (the sake-tini especially). We had the sushi, [which] was so good. The strawberry maki ...

was so amazing. It's a must if you're feeling adventurous."—SISTERSOLDIER FROM WRIGLEYVILLE

"I was sad to see Once Upon a Thai disappear. However, what is now in its place is fabulous. Martinis are only $5, but even if they were $20, I would have ordered the pear martini several times over. The drinks are beautifully garnished and the sushi plates are prepared with the same fine attention to detail. Everything we sampled was delightful."—REBECCA1 FROM RAVENSWOOD

Rollapalooza

3344 N. Halsted St. 773-281-6400

Choose from 50-plus maki at this tiny Boystown spot doing mostly carryout business. If rolls aren't your thing, there's chirashi sushi too.

"The rolls are so delicious and very reasonably priced. The waitstaff and sushi chefs are so friendly. The restaurant is very small, so be prepared to wait a bit on a busy night or order the food to go. This is one of my staple sushi places now!"—CHICAGOGIRL FROM CHICAGO

"A good find! A friend and I went in randomly and [were] pleasantly surprised. The decor was simple and the rolls were good! [There's] just enough space to enjoy a meal over a conversation."—LOVE2EAT FROM LINCOLN PARK

"Don't-apalooza. The service was awful ... the prices are absurd ... and the fish was stinky and tasted bad. Worst spicy tuna roll I've ever had. Save your money and eat ramen noodles."—CHICAGO_GIRL FROM LAKEVIEW

Ajasteak

660 N. State St. 312-202-6050

Don't let the name fool you: There's a lot more than steak at this splashy Asian spot (pronounced "Asia steak") in the Dana Hotel and Spa. Look for premium sushi selections such as salmon and yellowtail tartare with shallots, tobiko caviar and wasabi soy.

"We had several new-style sushi selections along with a Vietnamese catfish sandwich (or banh mi). Absolutely delicious."—B.L FROM CHICAGO

"Jewel sushi at Mirai prices. ... Decor: Visually bland just like the sushi. Reminded me of a restaurant in a Marriott."—GIZMOAQUA FROM RIVER NORTH

"After hearing rave reviews from my friends and co-workers, a few friends and I headed on over to Ajasteak. ... The sushi menu was amazing, fresh and surprisingly affordable. Welcome to the neighborhood!"—TBEEZ FROM ANDERSONVILLE

'Dork' turned emerging hip-hop star Kid Sister eager to drop debut record

Chicago Tribune

Melisa Young, a.k.a. Kid Sister, acknowledges that the yearlong wait for her much-anticipated debut album has been a bit much, especially for her.

"It's like, could I please be done now, thank you," she said. "But I am also a raging control freak. I wanted it to be perfect."

Kid Sister's "Dream Date" officially drops Jan. 27, she said, and it paints a beat-crazy yet down-to-earth portrait of the girl next door, which Young most certainly is.

Young, 28, has become one of the most talked-about new voices in hip-hop thanks to a string of Internet hits, including "Pro Nails," which featured a verse by Kanye West. She has played massive festivals such as Glastonbury, Coachella and Lollapalooza.

"A lot of things have happened to me in the last year, and people may see me differently because of that," she said. "But my job is to remind people nothing has changed. I grew up in an age of super-skinny supermodels, and I wasn't one. ... I do want to put a different face out there that people can relate to. Hip-hop needs a face-lift, because it's starting to sag."

And the face-lift won't produce a diva, she said. After growing up in the blue-collar south suburbs, graduating from film school at Columbia College and working three jobs to make ends meet, Young couldn't be a diva if she tried.

"I'm a dork," she said. "My idea of a good time growing up was going down the street and getting a hot dog."

As a teenager, Young was a regular in her high school musicals. She loved to sing on stage, and on weekends snuck into house-music clubs with her friends to dance. She didn't see music as a possible career until after college. And even then she stumbled into it, in part because her younger brother, Josh, and his friend Curt Cameruci had formed the DJ duo Flosstradamus.

"I saw my brother putting on these crazy parties, making money around the country, and here I was with my college degree and I had no money to go out and I'd be getting bills with red stripes across them, 'Final notice,'" she said.

Music was always part of her life, almost taken for granted. To entertain herself she'd write songs over edits of her favorite beats.

"A little Circuit City tape recorder, a Red Bull, notes scattered all around on pieces of paper and napkins, and me sitting in the middle of it, listening to a beat and coming up with ideas and little songs," she said. "I had no plans to do this for a living. My brother kept encouraging me, even when the songs sucked."

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING

Kanye West
"808s and Heartbreak"

"This is not the album Kanye West fans likely expected, nor is it one they likely will embrace. ... This one is for him. It remains to be seen if he goes back to making records for everybody else. For now, this is one fascinatingly perverse detour."

— Greg Kot, Chicago Tribune

The Killers
"Day & Age"

"The Killers have a flair for anything supersize, sparkly and over-the-top. ... When the Killers really push the theatrics, they shine."

—Melissa Maerz, Rolling Stone

Ludacris
"Theater of the Mind"

"'Theater' feels a bit like yet another 'Ocean's Eleven' sequel. We've watched this movie more than a few times, but it's always fun to see this many talented pals cutting loose together."

Simon Vozick-Levinson,
Entertainment Weekly

Record labels hope hot new releases will make cash registers sing

Seattle Post-Intelligencer

Baby, it's cold outside. But retailers are betting shoppers will warm up to the season's hottest albums.

Record labels always roll out their biggest releases in time for the holidays, hoping to take advantage of the shopping frenzy that gets under way the week of Thanksgiving.

Beyonce, Guns N' Roses and "American Idol" vets David Cook and David Archuleta already have released their big albums, and Island Def Jam Recordings pushed up the release date for Kanye West, Ludacris and The Killers to Monday, a day before the traditional Tuesday rollout, to get a jump on the competition in a weak economy.

Still to come before Christmas? Common, Britney Spears, Akon, Soulja Boy, Busta Rhymes and Fall Out Boy.

Here's a short look at three of Monday's big releases:

Kanye West

"808s and Heartbreak"

West's fourth album, "808s & Heartbreak," is the follow-up to "Graduation," which won three Grammys and made its debut at No. 1, with nearly 1 million in sales on its first week of release.

Anticipation is high—and so are West's ambitions.

"I realize that my place and position in history is that I will go down as the voice of this generation, of this decade," he recently told The Associated Press.

The Killers

"Day & Age"

The Killers are off and running with the new single "Human" from the album "Day & Age," the group's third studio project. Produced by Stuart Price, "Day & Age" features more of the epic choruses and soaring vocals typical of previous albums.

According to lead singer Brandon Flowers, the odd lyric from "Human"—"Are we human or are we dancer?"—references a Hunter S. Thompson quote.

"I think [Thompson] was very concerned with the direction of where we were headed in America—you know, the kids—and it's amazing how simply worded he put it, just by saying, 'I'm afraid that we're raising a generation of dancers.' It says so much and so I stole it and made it into this song," Flowers told the Edmonton Sun last week. "One ironic thing is Hunter S. Thompson hated disco music. And the song isn't disco, but it is a very dance-[oriented] song."

Ludacris

"Theater of the Mind"

Ludacris has been gearing up for the release of "Theater of the Mind," perhaps the biggest album of his career, by rolling out singles and videos since last month, beginning with "Undisputed." The album's second single, "One More Drink," co-starring T-Pain, was released on Election Day.

The rapper told MTV earlier this year that after doing a lot of acting, he was ready to get back to music.

"Just as the name implies, the album is theatrical," he told MTV. "Conceptual-wise, every song you hear plays out like a scene from the movie. Whether it's storytelling, me giving you the real of what's going on in the world, you gotta look at it as your imagination is gonna run wild every song you hear."

The bird is the word

Detroit Free Press

This month, as usual, the covers of food magazines are adorned with a beautiful roast turkey for Thanksgiving. Here's a brief look at what's out there:

FOOD & WINE, $4.50

The bird: A Thanksgiving planner features grilled butterflied turkey with caraway-anchovy gravy or apricot-glazed turkey with fresh herb gravy.
The sides: Mix and match starters such as smoky seafood cocktails and cauliflower soup with chorizo bread crumbs. There are a half-dozen side dishes including grilled roasted vegetables with pine nut pesto and creamed spinach with parsnips.
The desserts: Pumpkin tiramisu and pear tart with pecan crust.

MARTHA STEWART LIVING, $4.95

The bird: She dry-brines the turkey by giving it a rub with coarse salt and refrigerating it for two days. This means there's no lifting the bird in and out of a traditional water and salt brine.
The sides: Stewart staffer Lucinda Scala Quinn talks about Thanksgiving at the Scala home in Michigan and provides a baked artichoke side.
The desserts: Three takes on pumpkin pie, with three different crusts including a pate brissee and one using phyllo dough.

GOURMET, $4.50

The bird: Turkey three ways—from over-the-top roast turkey with black-truffle butter and white wine gravy to Latin-inspired adobo turkey with red chile gravy and an extra-moist turkey with traditional pan gravy.
The sides: Moscatel-glazed parsnips, carrot-fennel Soup, poblano and potato Gratin.
The desserts: Apple pie with nutmeg-scented rum ice cream, seckel pear tart with Poire William Cream.

BON APPÉTIT, $3.95

The bird: A simple salt-rubbed turkey. The magazine explains that the salt draws moisture from the turkey to the surface, where it combines with the salt, and then gets reabsorbed by the meat. Three salt seasoning recipes for turkey are offered.
The sides: Twelve make-ahead side dishes. Also, four takes on stuffing.
The desserts: A half-dozen pumpkin offerings from pie to cake to brulee.

'Stars' step down to three

The Orlando Sentinel

Time to pick another winner on ABC's "Dancing With the Stars." Will it be the best dancer (Brooke Burke), the best entertainer (Warren Sapp) or the coming-on-strong dark horse (Lance Bass)? They perform at 7 p.m. Monday on ABC. The results unfold in a two-hour finale—Miley Cyrus performs—at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Warren Sapp

Partner: Kym Johnson, who also danced with Joey Fatone.

Most memorable moment: Doing so well, despite stumbling, in his "Matrix"-flavored pasodoble.

Best dance: Either the paso or an exuberant quickstep. He proves a big man can move smoothly.

Judge's take: Len Goodman last week: "You are truly a joyful person to watch. You come out, full on, 100 percent and sell it."

Likelihood of winning: Whatever he lacks in technique, he makes up in enthusiasm. He seems the most popular, which gives him the edge.

Brooke Burke

Partner: Derek Hough, who danced with Shannon Elizabeth.

Most memorable moment: Her inspiring comeback last week on the sexy salsa after a disastrous jive.

Best dance: A scintillating fox trot that collected perfect scores.

Judge's take: Carrie Ann Inaba last week called Burke "a champion"—"somebody who rises above it and comes right back."

Likelihood of winning: She is graceful, elegant and the last woman left. She was the most consistent until last week. How big is her fan base?

Lance Bass

Partner: Lacey Schwimmer of "So You Think You Can Dance."

Most memorable moment: Losing his shoe during last week's jitterbug and carrying on. Host Tom Bergeron was amazed.

Best dance: Either the jitterbug or the show-stopping mambo, both from last week. They were Bass at his peak.

Judge's take: Bruno Tonioli on the jitterbug: "Shoes off or shoes on, that was brilliant."

Likelihood of winning: If 'N Sync fans come through, maybe. If he has another week like the last one, he would deserve to win.

Rich Dad Poor Dad

One dad was highly educated and intelligent;
he had a Ph.D. and had completed four years of under-graduate work in less than two years. He then went to do his advanced studies... all on full financial scholarships.

My other dad never finished the eighth grade.
Both men were successful in their careers, working hard all their lives. Both earned substantial incomes.

Yet my highly educated dad struggled financially all his life and the other dad would become one of the richest men I had ever known.

One died leaving tens of millions of dollars to his family, charities, and his church. The other left a legacy of unpaid bills.
Both men were strong, charismatic, and influential.

Both men offered me advice, but they did not advise the same things.

Having two dads as advisors offered me the perspective of contrasting points of view: one of a rich man and one of a poor man. This forced me to think about, and ultimately choose, a way of thinking for myself. A way of thinking that assures long-term wealth and true prosperity!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY SAGITTARIUS

Nov. 22-Dec. 21

A new moon in your sign coupled with three other planets in your sign is making you giddy. No matter what the economy is doing, no matter what your living arrangements are, and no matter whether you're single or partnered, you know that all is right with the world.

GET US ON YOUR PHONE

Need your horoscope and don't have RedEye nearby? Head to redeyechicago.com on your mobile phone.

Capricorn

Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Pluto is entering your sign, and one cycle is ending for you while another one is beginning. You could be changing your goals in the romantic department. If you're single, you'll be thinking about what it might be like to settle down.

Aquarius

Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You could be prompted to have "the talk" with your honey. There might be some unresolved issues that are creating turbulence in your relationship. Remember, the best way to have "the talk" is when you're both feeling cozy and can discuss things in a loving way.

Pisces

Feb. 19-March 20

Don't try to control other people's behavior because it's a losing battle. Instead, focus on maintaining a positive attitude. The moon is stirring up some weird behavior from loved ones, but it doesn't have to bring you down. Find a way to rise above it all.

Aries

March 21-April 19

You're feeling restless. No matter what is happening in your love life, you want it to be even better. Mars is inspiring you to do something wild and unusual. Surprise that special someone with your lusty behavior.

Taurus

April 20-May 20

Sometimes you're so busy doing things for everybody else that your energy gets sucked dry. Don't surround yourself with vampires. Spend some time with friends who really understand you. The moon says recharge your spiritual batteries.

Gemini

May 21-June 21

The bad news? There are four planets opposite your sign, turning you into an emotional wreck.

The good news? This won't last long. Hopefully, the damage done will be minimal. Avoid giving your honey ultimatums. This isn't the right time.

Cancer

June 22-July 22

Usually, you're pretty conservative in the bedroom. But wacky Uranus is giving you some strange ideas. You'll treat your honey to his own dungeon this Christmas. Or you'll plan a vacation with your girl at an intimate little igloo up in Greenland.

Leo

July 23-Aug. 22

You're getting a lot of attention. Don't let it go to your head. You'll be tempted to date three people at once and make lots of promises you'll never be able to keep. The sun says avoid making a fool out of yourself.

Virgo

Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Practical Venus has you hosting holiday events and planning parties with ease. Nobody is a better hostess than a Virgo. Just don't fill your schedule with so many obligations that you neglect to spend down time with your honey.

Libra

Sept. 23-Oct. 23

The holiday season can bring out your worst neuroses. You worry that you have a terminal disease. Worse yet, you're freaking out about a) not being married, b) not having kids yet or c) not finding a soul mate. The moon is reminding you that a soul mate might be closer than you think.

Scorpio

Oct. 24-Nov. 21

Partnership is a big theme for you now. Although you're a control freak and you can't stand delegating, maybe it's OK for your husband to take the kids to the store or your girlfriend to cook you a nice dinner once in a while. Jupiter says relax.

THE SIMPSON-WENTZ BABY VS. "TWILIGHT"

Pop news battle

What a weekend it was in pop-culture news! First, that movie about forbidden love between teen and vampire blew away all expectations about its box office take. "Twilight's" $70.6 million haul made for the biggest opening ever for a female director (Catherine Hardwicke). And elsewhere in O.M.G.-ish news, rocker Pete Wentz and wife Ashlee Simpson-Wentz named their baby boy Bronx Mowgli Wentz, which is just another unusual celebrity baby name. So which was the bigger news? Looks like it's time for a special RedEye Faceoff!

Pete and Ashlee have been talking about their baby since it was conceived, so we all knew this was coming. But Bronx Mowgli? No one could have predicted that curveball baby name.

ELEMENT OF SURPRISE

After the runaway success of stuff like "Hannah Montana," it has become pretty clear that "Twilight's" target demo—teen girls—is a force to be reckoned with. They turned out as expected and contributed to the record box office numbers.

Gwen Stefani and Gavin Rossdale have gotten a lot of mileage out of talking about their newborn son, Zuma Nesta Rock Rossdale. Pete Wentz, no stranger to the tabloid world, will no doubt do the same.

VITALITY

We're guessing this vampire thing isn't going away any time soon. Teens love vampires.

Bronx Mowgli's unique name was big news because mom and pop are famous.

NAME RECOGNITION

If you didn't know Robert Pattinson before "Twilight," you will now. He even made People's list of the sexiest men alive in 2008.

Pete and Ashlee's baby name pick follows something of a pattern in the celebrity world where stars name their kids after places. David and Victoria Beckham named their kid Brooklyn, for example.

TREND WATCH

Vampire Weekend is still a hit band. A movie about vampires steals the box office. Coincidence? Probably.

If they do have another baby, we can only hope that Pete and Ashlee come up with an even wackier moniker.

SEQUEL POTENTIAL

The movie was so successful over the weekend that Summit Entertainment, which released "Twilight," gave the green light to a "New Moon" project, based on the second book in Stephenie Meyer's series.

THE WINNER: "TWILIGHT" »

This one has to go to "Twilight." We had fun rappin' about the name Mowgli, but this vampire franchise is definitely here to stay.

Ashlee Simpson-Wentz gave birth to son Bronx Mowgli last week.

New music? No Doubt

After four years, No Doubt wants to rock again. "I don't think we should wait. Pack up the babies and get a bunch of nannies. So fun! Would be so inspiring to get out there and play all those songs again," singer Gwen Stefani wrote in a band chat on No Doubt's Web site Friday night, according to people.com.

Stefani

Stefani had two children, released two solo albums and launched her own fashion line during the band's hiatus, but now there's word No Doubt is preparing to start work on their first studio album since 2001's "Rock Steady."

Benj on the mend

Paris Hilton has spoken, but how's Benji Madden doing since the big breakup? According to his brother, Joel, Benj will be fine. In an interview with "Access Hollywood," the Good Charlotte rocker said: "[Paris has] been friends with Nicole since they were, like, 3, and it's not like we're never gonna see her again. ... But we all have to kind of see each other." Awkward!

'Bourne' again?

Universal Pictures has signed a deal with the estate of writer Robert Ludlum, who died in 2001, for exclusive rights to the Jason Bourne character and first look at Ludlum's other novels. More than 25 have yet to be adapted for the big screen. The "Bourne" trilogy, which starred Matt Damon, has earned more than $1 billion worldwide. Damon plans to reprise his role in a fourth flick due out in 2010.

Electric youth

Early winners at Sunday's American Music Awards included Rihanna and Chris Brown on a night that showcased pop music's youth movement. Of course, the Old Guard was represented well—with performances by Christina Aguilera, Kanye West and, yes, New Kids On the Block—but teen titans like the Jonas Brothers, Taylor Swift, Miley Cyrus and David Archuleta were the center of attention. West won his first-ever AMAs, picking up favorite male rap/hip-hop artist and favorite rap/hip-hop album. Host Jimmy Kimmel couldn't resist poking fun at the young stars. Kimmel said he'd been talking with Billy Ray Cyrus about his daughter, Miley, and lamenting that "they grow up so fast." "One day you're changing their diapers, the next day you're moving out of their house," Kimmel joked.

THE VELVET ROPE

Rahm-antic comedy

Another Chicago politician has been parodied by the "Saturday Night Live" crew. Too bad it didn't make it onto Saturday's broadcast. Andy Samberg's impersonation of Rahm Emanuel, Barack Obama's chief of staff, paid homage to "Rahmbo's" prizefighter style of getting things done. In the skit, which is online, Samberg-as-Emanuel starts his "message" to the public congenially, but soon it becomes a profanity-laced threat to anyone who crosses him. (Well played, Samberg.)

Want a sip?

Metallica's Lars Ulrich is all about sharing. In an interview with blender.com, Ulrich reveals that he spits his drinks at fans during concerts because, well, he likes to share. "The way you get to share what you're drinking is to project it into their mouths. Unsanitary? Listen, I'm [disease]-free," Ulrich says.

Barker sues

Travis Barker is suing the companies linked to the plane crash he survived in South Carolina in September. The crash killed two pilots, Barker's assistant and Barker's bodyguard; Barker and DJ AM were injured. The former Blink-182 drummer is seeking more than $25,000 in damages for pain and suffering, disfigurement, loss of earnings, and medical and legal expenses. The Associated Press reports. In his suit against Goodyear Tire and Rubber and an airplane maintenance company, Barker alleges the companies improperly operated and maintained the Learjet he was on.
